

Report on Faculty Exchange Programme with the Department of Botany, Pragjyotish
College on 25th September 2024

As part of the ongoing academic collaboration under the Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) signed between our college and Pragjyotish College, Guwahati, a Faculty Exchange Programme was successfully conducted on 25th September 2024.

Under this initiative, Dr. Ipsita Bhattacharjee, Assistant Professor, Department of Botany, visited Pragjyotish College and conducted a lecture session for the FYUGP 1st Semester Botany students.

The session focused on key topics from the core curriculum of the FYUGP Botany syllabus, with an emphasis on conceptual clarity and interactive teaching methods. Dr. Bhattacharjee engaged the students in a dynamic classroom discussion, incorporating visuals, examples from local biodiversity, and insights from her research experience. The lecture was well-received by both students and faculty members of Pragjyotish College.

This programme aimed at fostering academic exchange, enriching classroom experiences, and enhancing inter-institutional collaboration. Such activities not only benefit students by providing exposure to diverse teaching approaches but also open up avenues for joint research, field studies, and shared academic resources.

The Department of Botany, through this exchange, reaffirmed its commitment to academic excellence and collaborative growth under the framework of the MoU.

The visit concluded with a brief interaction between faculty members of both institutions, where future plans for collaborative academic activities, including student exchange, joint workshops, and field excursions, were discussed.
